The great spirit of Chapel Hill is renewed each year because students contribute of themselves and their energies to make the University a better place. It is through such renewal that the noble traditions of Chapel Hill are sustained and nourished.

Bill Friday
president

The most memorable event in my Chancellorship? How does one select the most memorable event among so many in the most interesting period of one's life? There is an understandable tendency to select my installation as Chancellor of the University — that University Day (October 12, 1966) when amidst academic pomp and in the presence of family, friends, students, and colleagues, I formally assumed the responsibilities of leadership in this University and had an opportunity to express my ideas and hopes for the University in the years ahead.

Yet, how could I omit the day on which the William R. Kenan, Jr. Charitable Trust announced its gift of $5,000,000 to the University for endowed professorships — a decision that would contribute greatly to attracting outstanding faculty to Chapel Hill, thereby enriching the educational life of the University.

Sometimes decisions had to be made at odd hours. I remember especially one night when I received a call at two in the morning from the faculty committee trying to negotiate a settlement between striking cafeteria workers and the food service. The campus was divided and in a highly emotional state and it was imperative that a fair settlement be reached as quickly as possible. I felt it necessary and wise to accept certain University financial responsibilities for the suggested settlement. The strike ended, calm was restored to the campus, and that telephone conversation is not likely to leave my memory.

My last commencement as Chancellor in June 1971 was especially memorable. After I had concluded my commencement address, the warmth and enthusiasm of the standing applause of students, faculty, and parents is likely to remain with me all of my life. All of these — each so brief in six crowded and exciting years — are the most memorable events of my Chancellorship, 1966-1972.

J. Carlyle Sitterson
former chancellor

There is — in my order of things — no higher honor, no larger responsibility, and no greater opportunity that could come to a native of this State than to be called upon to serve as Chancellor of the University at Chapel Hill. It is especially gratifying for me to be recommended for this position by President Friday, for whom I have the highest esteem, and to be a successor to Chancellors House, Aycock, and Sitterson, all of whom I have known and admired for many years.

The University at Chapel Hill is a great institution and a vital force in the life of this State, this region, and this nation. It must continue to be this and more. It must be proud of its past accomplishments and true to its present greatness but, above all, it must be responsive to the needs and the hopes of the future.

The future of the University depends upon many people: the taxpayers who give it their financial support, the alumni who give it their affectionate pride, the employees who give it their loyal service, the students who give it their loyal service, the students who give it its principal reason for being, and the faculty who give it its life and meaning. I ask the support of each of these groups, and I pledge to each of them in the days that lie ahead every resource of mind and spirit that I possess.

Ferebee Taybr
chancellor

C.O. Cathey
Dean of Student Affairs

It is too early to evaluate with accuracy the impact of the recently enacted increases in out-of-state tuition rates on the number of such students who will seek admission to this University. I suspect that we may note a slight decline in the volume of applications from out of state, particularly on the graduate and professional levels, but only slight — if any — decrease in the number of such students who will enroll.

For years now we have been authorized to admit no more than 15 per cent of an entering class from out-of-state. The Morehead Scholars, winners of certain other distinguished scholarships including NROTC awards, and recipients of athletic grants-in-aid have been included in the quota. It is not anticipated that there will be any lessening of interest in these fine awards, or that the University will experience any difficulty in enrolling the authorized number of well qualified applicants from out-of-state. After all, even with the increased tuition rate required of these students, they are getting one of the best bargains in higher education in this country.

James O. Cansler
Associate Dean of Student Affairs

The increase in Out-of-State Tuition effected by the State Legislature in July 1971 will have undesirable effects for the University in general and many students in particular.

Personal disappointment will be keen among students who because of the tuition increase, may be forced to forego coming to Carolina. Those who have attended here and wish to continue will be even more disappointed by a financially forced transfer to another school. Equally serious is the possible loss to the University itself of bright, creative students from other states whose attendance adds greatly to the Student Body and the learning process. This loss may be most acutely felt at the graduate level but the undergraduate student body will not be unaffected.

Catherine Carmichael
Dean of Women

Great good comes of most movements which are intelligently conceived and purposefully motivated. The status of woman in society reflects the general status of society; for women's rights have been a subject of interest to men and women through all ages.

Even a cursory survey shows that many of the rights for which women fought more than a hundred years ago are now axiomatic to our culture. Nevertheless, it follows that, as society evolves and as other goals are established, yet other rights, privileges, and opportunities can be opened — and ought to be opened — to women.

Since women's movements in the latter half of the twentieth century tend to proceed toward these goals, I applaud both the movements and the goals.

With the end of rapid quantitative growth and with the leveling off in size that we now foresee for the years ahead, it will be possible to concentrate our efforts on sustaining and improving the qualitative growth of the University.

Lyle V. Jones
Dean of Graduate School

Graduate study as well as undergraduate instruction is offered in every major campus in the United States. Graduate Schools have been dramatically successful in their direct contributions to graduate students and to society. Sometimes, however, the extent of their contributions to the quality of the undergraduate program is questioned.

It is my firm belief that a strong graduate program may be, and on this campus is, remarkably beneficial to undergraduate education.

Partly, this belief stems from recognizing that most professors participate actively both in graduate and undergraduate training; very few engage only in graduate instruction and research. It is no secret that a distinguished faculty member is more likely to be attracted to a campus where opportunities exist for graduate education. Hence, a strong Graduate School enables UNC to attract first-rate faculty, who nevertheless devote large portions of their efforts to undergraduate training.

It is also the case that the existence of strong programs of graduate training and research (and these tend to be concurrent) serves to attract financial grants for personnel and equipment that supplement State appropriations to the university. These additional resources stimulate institutional excellence, and enrich undergraduate and graduate programs alike.

The opportunity for undergraduates to communicate with and learn from graduate students further enhances the quality of undergraduate education.

The complex organization that constitutes today's university has become the subject of considerable criticism. Some critics have claimed that the faculty may concentrate on research and graduate training to the virtual exclusion of the undergraduate student. To a notable extent, this cannot be said of the faculty at UNC. A spirit of community—undergraduates, graduates, and faculty—has been developed and maintained on this campus, with a clear advantage accruing to all. The Graduate School will continue to promote activities that strengthen such collegiality within our University community.

Richard Cashwell
Director of Undergraduate Admissions

A common misconception in completing college applications is that many extra-curricular activities (usually without real involvement) enhance a student's prospect for admission. Having numerous letters of recommendation sent by family friends seems to be important to some candidates, when little new information is found in these letters. Admissions officers are principally interested in students with strong academic criteria, not extra-curricular lists and friendly letters that do not add to the picture of the candidate.

The fact that admission selection has subjective criteria within objective parameters contributes to the colleges' inability to be specific about admission requirements. High school counseling with some exceptions is done by emotion rather than fact and does not assist the student in making a rational decision. Social pressure to be admitted to a so-called prestige college contributes to students choosing institutions that are not best for them, while the myth of excellence carried by some school bears little resemblance to their current worth.

The challenge facing college admissions today is to find some means of alleviating the emotional stress placed on candidates during the process of application and selection. Volumes of misinformation generated about this process contribute to this stress and such misinformation needs to be eliminated.

Secondary schools and colleges must create an information system and an articulation process that will enable the college-bound student to select the right college for his interests and desires. The student in turn will then be able to choose the school that best meets his or her needs for a satisfactory college experience both in and out of the classroom.

Bently Renwick
Assistant Director of Undergraduate Admissions

Over two and a half years have passed since I was appointed Assistant Director of Undergraduate Admissions here at the University of North Carolina. During this time I have had the opportunity to witness various events on campus that concern Black students. It would be a mistake to say that all of the majority of the events have been favorable to the Black students. However, in the midst of everything, favorable or unfavorable, the admission of Blacks has increased tremendously during the past two years. I personally believe that this increase will continue for some time.

Approximately three years ago, the Black Student Movement, under the leadership of Preston Dobbins, focused attention on the inequities that existed on campus for Blacks in general. This included Black students and Black university employees. Those events, which I'm sure most of you are aware of, led to the creation of the position that I now hold. Since that time, I have observed a change of mood among the majority of Blacks on campus. They are beginning to realize that they must become a part of the University. Whether the White majority wants them to become involved, does not matter.

This younger generation of Blacks has realized that individuals need other individuals, that a relationship must and should exist between people. So far, Black students at Carolina have only found that relationship with other Blacks. The individual is not free to do what he wants to do, but rather what he has to do. I have written off my generation and the one before mine. We gave birth to a very acute testimonial problem: how will the younger generation, both Black and White, handle its destiny? Whether we want to admit it or not, today's problem is Black and White. We are living in an era of Black Versus White but the college students of today, especially here at Carolina, will convert that to a Black and White unity. Beautiful . . . . .

Robert Kepner
Director of Resident life

Students' search for meaning in their institutions has been seen this year in the dissolution or reorganization of some residence colleges and in the proposed reorganization of Student Government. Students seem to be insisting that limited resources not be wasted. Their action closely echoes the concern expressed by environmentalists for the effective use of the world's resources. In the case of the residence colleges, the rejection of old models with the replacement by new ones represents a recognition by students that the colleges were no longer serving their needs. Founded eight years earlier as the answer to the loss of individual identity in a university which at the time was growing rapidly, the residence colleges were established as small communities within the larger university setting as a means of pulling together people with a common academic base. Unfortunately, through the years, the theoretical academic underpinning of the colleges was lost, leaving them as institutions forced together without clear purpose.

Joseph Eagles
Vice Chancellor

I came back to UNC in 1968 along with the Class of 1972. In the last four years I have found that the dream of so many alumni — to become, again, a part of things in the Southern Part of Heaven — is tremendously satisfying when it comes true.

The University at Chapel Hill is the result of the energies, abilities, and ambitions of thousands of students, faculty, and citizens of North Carolina over a period of 175 years. That it may be "immortal" is attested to by its statue today despite the efforts of its detractors. Today's students challenge its teachings, but their presence here is an acknowledgment that there are values to be gained.

To sit and absorb without question may be called education by some but that's never really been what it's all about. To probe, to question, as today's students increasingly do, contributes to the dynamism of education traditional at UNC. Their more sophisticated, more participatory approach to learning now, their responsiveness to society's problems and their demand for relevance as well as excellence in teaching have impressed me greatly. I have gained faith and confidence in their generation's capacity to make the world a better place in the years to come.

It is irritating to find oneself in the presence of something that is both important and undefinable. Frequently this is how you feel in the presence of great teaching. At other times in this situation you realize that you are interested in being a learner, preferably in learning things that matter, that may have significant influence on your behavior.

These twin components, teaching and learning, are the answers to the statement, "How teachers make a difference."

Through the years individuals and institutions have set forth their purposes of education. The behavior of people and institutions in our society today suggests that the purpose of education be what it always was — the molding of men rather than the production of knowledge. This purpose is what teaching is all about — a care and concern for the future of man.

J. Dixon Phillips
Dean of Law School

Among the most stimulating, challenging and satisfying aspects of my job are the times I spend with students — whether individually or in groups.

Fred Mayes
Dean School of Public Health

Anyone in a minority status has two pressing needs — to be treated as “like” everyone else with the same respect, justice, and opportunity accorded to the majority, and to be treated as “different” by virtue of his unique constellation of history, culture, personality, sex, race and aspirations.

A generation ago it was nuclear incineration which was about to put an end to life on our globe. Now it is economic growth. Only a decade and a half ago we were becoming traumatic over too low an economic growth rate, now in the early seventies we are being told that too much economic growth threatens this spinning spaceship. Our only hope, we are told, is Zero Economic Growth. The general theme of the ZEG devotees is the proposition that more output means intolerable pollution and resource depletion.

These concerns which are real enough will not succumb to the panaceas of ZEG, as a solution to environmental pollution, would be akin to the amputation of an arm in order to cure a hangnail. Indeed, the curtailment of all economic growth would assure that the problems of environmental decay will be on us in aggravated form.

It may be useful to reflect upon some of the implications of ZEG. Among them are declining levels of personal income, rising unemployment, declining productivity, increasing poverty, and reduced capacity to deal with environmental decay. Our best prospect for realistic solutions to the problems of environmental decay lies in sustained high levels of economic growth. Only out of such growth will we find the means of these necessary solutions.

The search for solutions to the problems of environmental decay calls for:

- a. the identification of these social costs,
- b. the exploration of technologies which promise least-cost solutions,
- c. the financing of both the explorations and the solutions.

Our best hope lies where the solution to such problems has always rested in the combination of best technology and best managerial supervision. But we need to be wary of another proposal we hear these days — this is the proposal that our business leadership be diverted from the target of profit maximization. Here again we are confronted by another of these simplistic solutions. This line of thought seems to follow some such pattern as the idea that is somehow or other business leaders could be converted to a new kind of an enlightenment then their giving up of profits would somehow or other provide the wherewithal to meet the hidden costs of pollution, etc.

This line of thought is erroneous on several counts. Perhaps its underlying fallacy rests in the proposition that business leaders are asked to give up what they do best and turn to something for which they have no special competence — the ordering of social priorities. Coping with the problems of environmental decay requires asking our business leadership to continue in its most efficient role — to continue in the search for long run profit maximization.

It will be futile to look only to private business to come up with solutions. The individual business firms which does attempt to cover all of social costs must then compete with other firms in its industry and will do so at a considerable disadvantage. These costs must be fully identified and then regulations must be established which will require equitable assumption of such costs both within a particular industry and across the face of all our various industries.

Only through a combination of government and private attack upon the problems of environmental decay do we have a chance of successful solution. We need to identify these social costs, discover and apply the technologies for dealing with them and distribute the burden of these social costs over the economy in the most equitable fashion.

Simplistic solutions like the proposals for Zero Economic Growth need to be stopped in their tracks.

The book surrounding these words may ruin my argument that yearbooks in general seem to have failed to adjust to changing student needs. The question, of course, is how a yearbook editor can satisfactorily define "student needs."

It seems clear that for decades the yearbook on this campus followed a traditional path, with annual picture and text reviews of some aspects of student life. For those long years, the question of student needs, and the question of funding rarely arose. In the recent past, however, significant questions have been asked about the worth of the Yack, and about the methods of paying for it.

Among several proposals is the notion of a combined subscription to the Yack and The Daily Tar Heel. This approach has several flaws. For one thing, the functions of the two publications are significantly different, with The Tar Heel providing a daily flow of information about campus life, and the Yack compiling a year-end overview.

Secondly, while there is little problem in the practical matter of distributing the once-a-year Yack, difficulties in setting up an efficient "subscribers-only" system for distributing the Tar Heel are enormous.

Finally, there is little doubt that most students need a daily campus information medium; the "need" for the Yack is not as clear.

Sooner or later some mechanism for defining students' needs will have to be developed or the Yack will join some other no-longer-useful traditions in oblivion.

In a democratic society where decisions depend on the capability of the citizens to determine directions in which their republic must go, public education is essential. Since today's world is increasingly complex it is mandatory that the minds of our young people be developed to the fullest extent of their capabilities. The human mind is our greatest natural resource, one which should be developed and conserved in all possible ways.

It is non-productive to terminate free public education with the twelfth grade. We owe it to ourselves and the future of this complex world to provide in the public interest free public education to the full extent of the capabilities of our young people and of our institutions to educate them. The raising of tuition is a deplorable disservice to our hopeful youth and to the republic which they must soon govern. We should insist that every young citizen be given full educational opportunity freely to develop his or her capacity for learning. The cost of this would be the best investment our society could possibly make. We must move on to free public education in higher education.

Lucy Conant
Dean of Nursing

The nature of nursing practice must change in order to help provide the health care that is needed. Nurses cannot do this alone, but we must at least do our share of innovation, of evaluation, and implementation. It is obvious that frequently when people need health care they do not necessarily require physician care. Nurses have much more to contribute in keeping people well, in dealing with minor health problems, and in providing follow-up care for people who are chronically ill.

S.F. Woodell
International Student Advisor

One of the greatest satisfactions in dealing with students from other countries lies in witnessing the subtle — or sometimes not so subtle — changes in conversation and mannerism that come about as they feel more ease in their new surroundings.

To hear an Arab declaim "don't jump on my case!" or an African say "quit rapping with my main squeeze" is to realize that he has come to express himself in American terms.

Of at least equal importance this works both ways. The American who has had exposure to the foreign student finds his horizons extended far beyond those of Chapel Hill or Nash County or North Carolina or the continental United States.

Maybe this is what Wendell Willkie meant by "One World." If it is, I'm in favor of it.

The education of pharmacy students now stresses far more significant health care roles than for past pharmacy students. One major change is the growing emphasis on a less structured program which supplements the formal curriculum leading to the degree — B.S. in Pharmacy — one of the requirements for licensure.

Three years ago students of the School of Pharmacy themselves initiated what has become a very significant "extracurricular" training experience. From their initial efforts has emerged a "Student-to-Student Drug Abuse Education Program" in which these specially trained pharmacy students, working as teams, make presentations to students in the secondary schools throughout the state. This is important as a public service.

George P. Hager
School of Pharmacy

This group, in 1971, traveled to 225 junior and senior high schools throughout North Carolina. It is estimated that they met with 52,000 students to bring them information about the serious drug abuse situation. The School of Pharmacy Student-to-Student Drug Abuse Project is reputed to be the most effective method of combating drug abuse which is presently available. Perhaps the reasons for this are their "almost" peer group appearance with school youngsters and the respect they warrant because of their knowledge and the respect engendered by youngsters for the profession they represent.

The Student-to-Student Program is also of subjective significance since activity of this kind — while they are students — will undoubtedly pave the way for their participation in health education activities of great importance in the health of individuals and the communities they will serve as pharmacists.

James W. Bowden
Dean of School of Dentistry

The student who enters Medical School in 1972 will surely be an accomplished individual. Interest in Medicine as a career has reached a new peak. Applications at UNC and nationally are up about 30% over last year alone. One of the consequences of this increase in the number of applications to Medical School is the limitation which it imposes in terms of educational opportunity. This is a matter of major concern to medical faculty as the class size at UNC has expanded by almost 60% during the past five years. But the education of a medical student must be accomplished in great depth, and there are many experiences in this educational process which require virtually a one-to-one relationship between faculty and student.

In view of the limited, though increased, number of places, and the burgeoning applications, admission to Medical School has become increasingly competitive. Although a few will have averages slightly lower, most of the students admitted to Medical School in the fall of 1972 will have grade point averages of 2.9 or better. Scores on the Medical College Admissions Tests are taken into account by the Admissions Committee in the total evaluation of applicants, but are not ordinarily decisive. The Committee's appraisal of the student's motivation for Medicine and other personal qualifications are a part of the evaluative process.

Between 80% and 90% of the students admitted to this Medical School are residents of North Carolina, although they may have attended college in institutions throughout the country. The students who are admitted from out-of-state residence are generally superior students and bring to the class, to the School, and to the State a measure of excellence and promise which is highly contributory to the whole enterprise.

The UNC Medical School has unquestionably attained real distinction among medical schools in this country. There are plans to expand the School of Medicine from its present class of 110 entering students to significantly larger classes, perhaps all the way up to 200 students in the 1980's, if the resources can be found to expand the physical plant and the teaching faculty and staff.

Christopher C. Fordham, III, M.D.
Dean of School of Medicine

Edward G. Holley
Dean of School of Library Science

In a changing society many professional schools are asking serious questions about the nature of their curriculum in preparing future practitioners of their craft. What do we really need to teach the beginning professional and are there other kinds of experience he should have to enable him to qualify for this first job? In view of the criticism of the Newman Report (1971) that the relationship between academic training and success in a profession is not nearly as direct as is frequently assumed, the matter of curriculum reform has assumed a sense of some urgency. How can we better relate research and theory in a discipline to its practice in the field? The faculty and students of the School of Library Science have been asking themselves these questions during the year as they seek to identify what a library science curriculum ought to be. If the trend in other institutions provide any clue, the curriculum will become more flexible and provide a greater options than it has in the past.

At this close of our fortieth year, as we face the future, we want to develop a program which will prepare future librarians for their tasks as well as our current practitioners have been prepared for theirs.

There is in almost every Temple of Education a money changer; i.e., bookstore manager. To faculty and to students he may be, at best, a necessary evil. His mundane purpose is to provide them those tools of the Education process that can be wrapped in paper or dropped into a bag.

As though some wild-eyed eremite from the wilderness is about to barge in with a bundle of cords to drive him out, he stands, rock-like against an angry wind, from the dead day of the ten-dent notebook unto the shocked and living present. By this and this alone, is he sustained: That the people he exists to serve are the best of humankind, and in them lies the best hope of Man.

The Bookstore Manager is a skilled technician, but not versed in the crafty ways of Madison Avenue. He would fain be understood, but not at a price too great. If telling his story entails a cost that must be borne by those he serves, or if to sing his song he must pause from his appointed task, then by choice, he will stand behind the wall.

The University Community without its bookstore manager would be like a painting missing some of its shades and shadows. And a bookstore manager bereft of his University Community would be like a soul, lost, alone, and drifting in the dark and cold pools where spawn the mother stars.

Tom Shetley, Student Store Director

The Union is only three years old this year, but it's already too small. Fortunately the building is designed for expansion — into the parking lot on the east and up another floor for a total of 70% more room than now. It won't be long before this will have to be done.

Right now student organization office is overcrowded. Two offices have been moved into what were once closets and everyone has doubled up. The Tar Heel office is terribly crowded too and needs to be larger to accommodate the increased staff. We need room for a craft shop, a larger coffee house, a party room, a movie theater, and more storage space. The list gets longer every day.

Building the building was fun. Getting it completed will be even more gratifying; but the most rewarding feeling is seeing it used, seeing it do the job it was made for!

When it was dedicated, Frank Porter Graham wrote "may this building always be the home of creation and recreation, laughter and song, freedom of discussion and dissent, truth and beauty. . . ." So be it.

Publications Board

Charles Gillam, Chairman

The term of office of the 1971-1972 Publications Board has been an eventful one for Publications Board agencies.

This fiscal year, we saw Student Graphics, Inc. Print Shop begin to turn a profit. Organized in the summer of 1970, it was originally a victim of poor planning, inexperienced personnel, poor management, and undercapitalization. This year, we saw Graphics go from a position of near bankruptcy to a position of profitability. By changing the method of paying for the DTH printing, we were able to alleviate Graphics cash-flow problem. Increased volume in poster printing, coupled with better quality work, has added to profitability.

For the first time, the Yackety Yack was put on a subscription basis this year. The uncertainty connected with not knowing how much money could be raised through subscriptions caused all of us concern. But the Yack staff rose to the challenge, enough subscriptions were sold and the Yack still lives.

The most unfortunate thing that happened this year was the trouble caused over the "magic question contest" sponsored by WCAR. Often warrants were issued for the arrest of the promoters of the contest, the credibility of the radio station sank to an all-time low. Under the direction of people who were not connected with "magic question", the process of rebuilding began. It will probably take another year, or more, however, before the losses in terms of goodwill with the advertising community can be recouped. Progress has been made this year, but there is still work to be done.

The Daily Tar Heel again received an "All American Paper" award. It also continued to become more and more dependent on student fees. I hope that the pipe dream, that many uninformed people hold, about the Tar Heel independence has been forgotten. The Tar Heel, in any form close to its present form, cannot become independent of student fees — it is a financial impossibility. I see no reversing of the Tar Heel's present trend of plunging further and further into the red.

Student Government runs hundreds of thousands of dollars through its business every year. The concern of Student Government is increasingly becoming business. Those who undertake money projects hastily, who ignore the financial realities of Student Government, who are not aware of the business responsibilities of Student Government, can do more damage in a year than can be recovered in several years.

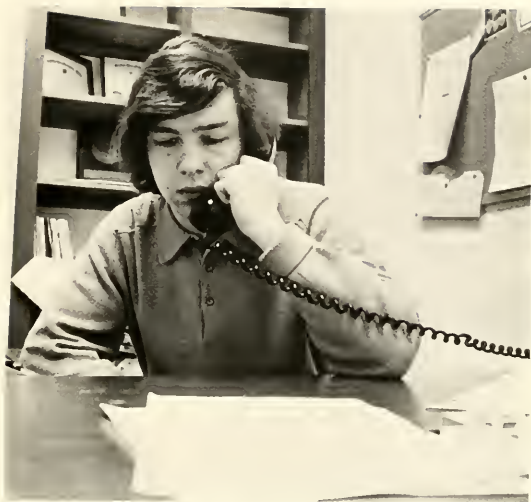

I, therefore, caution all to remember these things. This year's underclassmen cannot allow the work of many years to be undone by those who may not understand financial realities facing the businesses of Student Government.

AFROTC

At UNC we fit the military into our education because "man's flight through life is sustained by the power of his knowledge."

Air Force ROTC boasts a program characterized by scholarship and service — by both graduate and undergraduate members. Scholastics are a major part of the program and all cadets take required courses taught by both civilians and active duty Air Force personnel. Leadership qualities are instilled on the drill field as well as in the classroom. Qualified cadets have the opportunity to enroll in the Flight Instruction Program and earn their private pilot's license while still at UNC.

AFROTC also provides services to the community. Arnold Air Society and their female counterpart Angel Flight do volunteer work at the Veteran's hospital in Durham, give blood, and make pecuniary donations to worthy causes.

Debate Team

UNC's "dynamic duo," debaters Joe Loveland and Joe McGuire, received number one national ranking and made debate history by winning, in one season, three of the ten major tournaments qualifying them for national competition.

The "duo" was victorious at the Northwestern University Tournament, Emory University's "Peachtree" Tournament and the UCLA Tournaments. UNC defeated old rivals UCLA, the 1971 champions, and won the "Peachtree" Tournament for the second year in a row.

Loveland and McGuire also received individual speaking awards in almost all tournaments, including the UCLA and "Peachtree" Tournaments.

Residential life continued in 1971-72 pretty much as usual. Some improvements were made; some new difficulties appeared on the scene; but mostly the old problems remained. Throughout the year, students maintained their normal high level of criticism.

Not that all the complaints were unjustified. In August, 1300 freshmen arrived for their stay at Carolina to find that they were living with two other people in normal double rooms. With the highest level of dormitory crowding since the World War II era, the year was off to an ominous start.

The fledgling Office of Residence Life, in its second year, rapidly assumed the role of public enemy number one. Students directed their complaints about inadequate maintenance, too little furniture, and poor facilities at the understaffed and overworked department. Announcements of increased rent for the future and of the end of funding for the residential counseling teams fanned the flames of discontent. While the rent increase remained, student protests led to temporary funding of the counseling program for at least one more year.

Generally, though, Residence Life received more criticism than they probably deserved. Greater efforts were made to improve communication and cooperation with the Residence College Federation and other student groups. Some definite progress was made; James was converted to a coeducational dorm, with plans to have Ehringhaus follow. A new policy was established to allow realistic use of electrical appliances in rooms, and a total rewiring of all north campus residence halls was begun.

The six-year old residence college system showed signs of major change. Winston, Alexander, and Connor joined together to form Henderson Residence College, but the trend was in the other direction. King College dissolved officially, followed by the decentralization of Scott and Morehead, the two oldest residence colleges. The return of a primary emphasis on individual residence halls was both realistic and positive.

Spring brought with it an increase in concern about the lack of campus security. Women were no longer safe walking by themselves, as the number of attempted assaults reached three per week. The south campus situation, fraught with community-campus and black-white tensions, was even more critical. Students in James asked for, and got, an ID check for all people entering the building on the weekends.

All in all, the residence halls served their purpose — a place for study, sleep, parties, and visitation. Even more, they provided a source for criticism; and who is happy without something to complain about?

Carolina football reached new heights in 1971 as the Tar Heels swept every Atlantic Coast Conference game to claim their first outright conference title in history. Overall, UNC posted a 9-2 regular season record.

This earned the Tar Heels a second straight trip to a bowl game. It was the Peach Bowl in 1970 and the Gator Bowl this year. In that Gator Bowl Classic at Jacksonville, Fla., the Tar Heels put up a mighty fight before losing a heartbreaking 7-3 game to powerful Georgia.

Highlights of the Carolina regular season were a 7-3 victory over defending ACC champion Wake Forest and a thunderous 38-0 decision over arch-rival Duke in the final regular season game at Durham.

In a key late season game, Carolina disposed of Clemson, 26-13, snapping an unbeaten streak for the Tigers in conference play. In an important non-conference game, Carolina flattened Illinois of the Big Ten by 27-0.

Many great individual stars were in the Carolina cast. Some of the best were quarterback Paul Miller, wingback Lewis Jolley, offensive guard Ron Rusnak, linebackers John Bunting and Ricky Packard and a dazzling field goal kicking specialist, Ken Craven.

Jolley was the team's leading ground gainer with 712 yards rushing. He averaged 6.1 yards a carry. Miller passed for 1,041 yards including nine touchdown tosses.

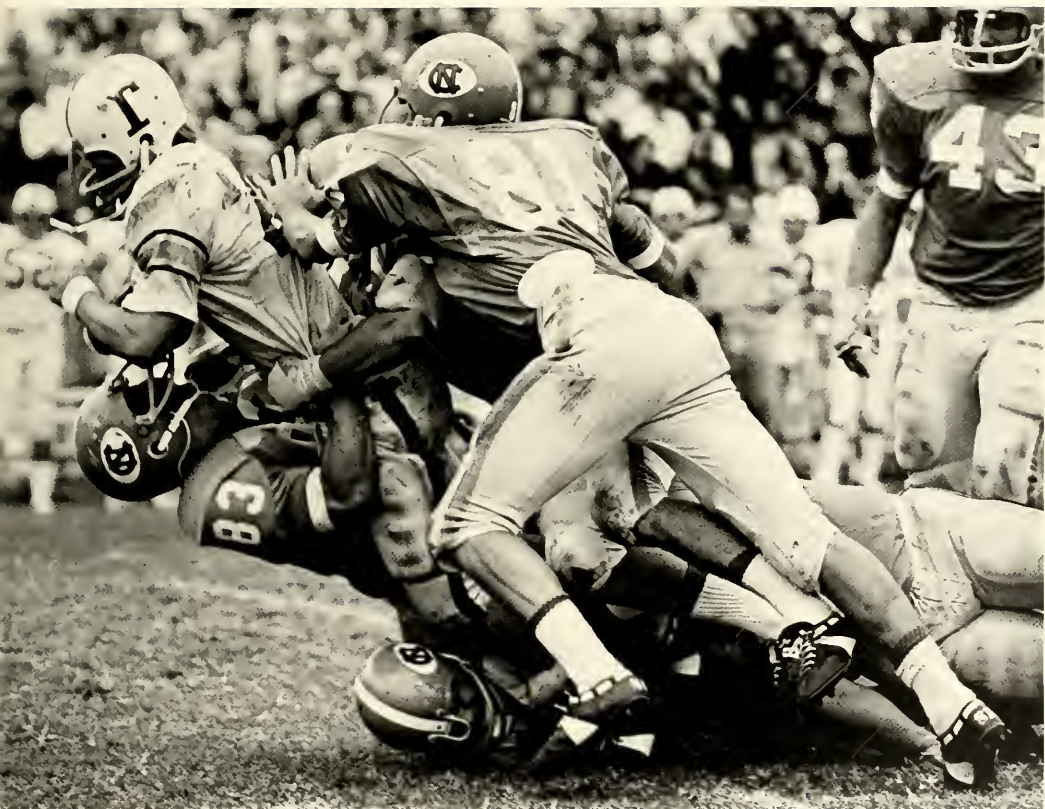

The nine Carolina victories during the regular season were the most for a Carolina team since the 1948 season.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

Cross Country

Carolina placed four runners in the top ten positions and upset favored Duke in the Atlantic Coast Conference Cross-Country championships.

Reggie McAfee and Larry Widgeon finished second and third behind Duke's Bob Wheeler to pace the Tar Heels. One of the keys to the victory, however, was the strong performance of sixth-place finisher Mike Garcia.

Tony Waldrop, plagued by injuries for the entire season, also made a fine showing in the championships by coming in tenth.

Soccer

Plagued by inconsistency at the goal, Carolina's soccer team posted a 6-4-1 record in 1971. The Tar Heels won five of their first six matches, but were only 1-3-1 in the last half of the season.

Top performer for Carolina was fullback Van Allen, one of the steadiest, most consistent players in the ACC. He made the All-ACC team. Second team All-ACC picks were fullbacks Jim Smith, halfback Marc Marcoplos and forward Anson Dorrance.

Highlight of the season was a 1-0 victory over defending ACC Champion Virginia at Charlottesville. Bill Isherwood's goal with only 3:10 to play gave the Tar Heels the victory.

Wrestling

North Carolina's wrestling team performed about as well as expected when one considers that the Tar Heel squad was dominated by freshmen. For most of Carolina's matches, including the ACC tournament, six of the ten weight classes were filled by first-year men.

Thus, the inexperience of the team must be regarded as a major factor in its 2-11 season. But despite the lopsided record, there were several bright spots during the year.

After a slow start and before a fatigued finish, the Tar Heels put together four or five impressive mid-season performances. Particularly pleasing were the efforts of freshmen Bob Brinton (134), Bill Merritt (126), Mack Harrell (142), Charles Moose (150), Bob Wilson (177), and Al Winget (158).

Probably the two most consistent performers were veterans Ricky Weisner and Chuck Sara. Senior captain Sara swept more victories than any Tar Heel. He was awarded the Benjamin Solomon Trophy for "qualities of character" as well as the Educational Foundation watch for the outstanding senior.

Coach Sam Barnes and Weisner, who has been elected as captain for next year, can look forward to the return of all those freshmen — and this time, they will have a year's experience to their credit.

Swimming

Brilliant late-season performances by two butterflyers highlighted 1971-72 swimming at Carolina. Senior Dave Bedell of West Caldwell, N.J. and sophomore Jim Osborn of Moorestown, N.J. each turned in outstanding efforts in championships meets.

Osborn was the only Tar Heel winner in the Atlantic Coast Conference Championships. He swept both the 100-yard and 200-yard butterfly.

A week later Bedell set a new ACC record in the 200-butterfly when he won that event at the Eastern Intercollegiate at Yale University. His time was 1:54.543.

However, they were not the only stars. Throughout the season Carolina received strong performances from distancemen Jake Southard, Gerry Chapman and Peter Barnes; Dave Marlin in the individual medley; and sprinter Glenn Garella.

Basketball

Carolina enjoyed another banner year in basketball in 1971-72, sweeping its fourth Atlantic Coast Conference and Eastern Regional championship in the past six seasons.

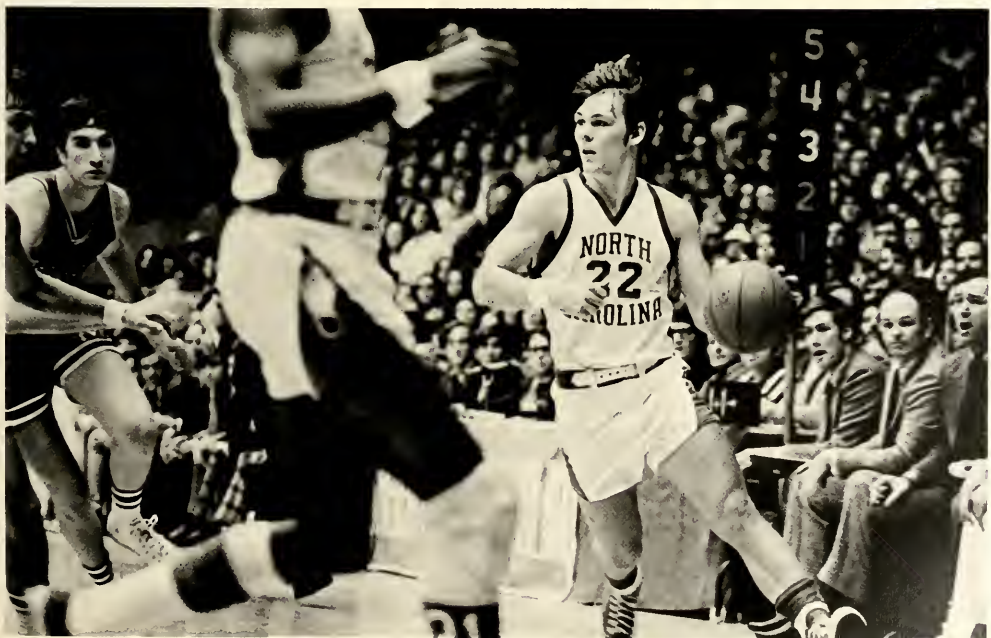

The Tar Heels of Coach Dean Smith, compiling an overall record of 29-5, advanced all the way to the final four in NCAA Tournament play. In the national semifinals, UNC bowed to Florida State, 79-75, but the Tar Heels came back to win the game for third place at Los Angeles toppling Louisville, 105-91.

This Carolina team did something no other collegiate team ever has accomplished in history. The Tar Heels won five tournament championships in a single season. They captured three in a row in December — the Big Four Tournament at Greensboro, the International Christmas Tournament at Madrid, Spain, and the Sugar Bowl Tournament at New Orleans, La. Carolina followed up those triumphs with the championship victories in the ACC Tournament at Greensboro and the Eastern Regional at Morgantown, West Va.

Balance and great marksmanship were the strong points of this Carolina team. Robert McAdoo, a junior from Greensboro, N.C., was the team scoring leader with a 19.5 average. The four other players averaged scoring in double figures were Dennis Wuycik of Ambridge, Pa., at 18.0, George Karl of Penn Hills, Pa., at 11.7, Bill Chamberlain of New York, N.Y. at 10.9 and Bobby Jones of Charlotte, N.C. at 10.2.

Steve Previs, who averaged scoring only 5.3 points a game, was the team leader at guard. His defensive play sparked many Tar Heel victories.

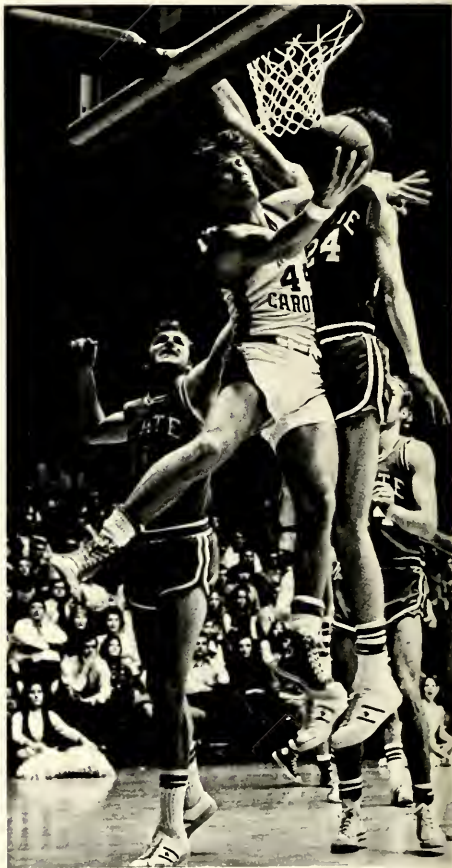

Carolina finished the season with a field goal shooting percentage of 52.8 and ranked among the national leaders. Jones hit 66.8 percent of his shots and Wuycik made 61.0 percent of his.

Gymnastics

Although suffering four losses, Carolina's gymnastics team had a highly successful 1972 season. All of the Tar Heels' defeats in a 5-4 season were to national powers — Michigan, Michigan State, Eastern Michigan and Georgia Southern.

Carolina finished fifth in the Southern Intercollegiate Gymnastics Championships. Top Tar Heel performers in that meet were Joe Burt, who finished fourth on the pommel horse, and Rick Fox, who was seventh on the parallel bars.

Fencing

Two Atlantic Coast Conference Fencing Championships have been won. Carolina has taken them both.

The 1971-72 team rolled to a nine-bout win over N.C. State. In fact, Carolina won the individual championships in all three weapons: Dave Lynn in epee, Dave Brown in sabre and Robert Cromatie in foil.

Six Tar Heels named the 12-man all-conference team. They were Lynn and Bob Peterson in epee, Brown and Bud Griscom in sabre and Cromatie and Charlie Poteat in foil.

Track

Four Tar Heels won individual championships, but Carolina again finished second to powerful Maryland in the 1972 Atlantic Coast Conference Indoor Games.

Reggie McAfee set a new conference record in the mile with a time of 4:03.8. Other Tar Heel winners were Darryl Kelly in the broad jump, Larry Widgeon in the two-mile run and Tony Waldrop in the 1,000 yard run. Widgeon and Waldrop were repeat winners from 1971.

McAfee finished second in the NCAA Indoor Games in Detroit and earned All-American honors for his performance there.

Baseball

Sparked by a pitching staff that gave up only 2.23 earned runs per game, the Carolina baseball team posted a 23-9 record during the 1972 season.

The Tar Heels finished 10-5 in the Atlantic Coast Conference and just percentage points behind first-place Virginia in the league race. The Cavaliers won the title with a 9-4 ACC record. Each team had been scheduled to play 18 games, but no-rained-out games were made up.

Freshman righthander Mike Merritt and sophomore southpaw John Dannemann were the top men on the UNC pitching staff. Merritt was 6-1 with a 1.94 ERA while Dannemann was 5-1 with a 1.07 ERA.

Jim Chamberlain was 4-2, Fred Gianiany 2-1 and Durwood Powell 2-0.

Tennis

For the 16th time in 19 years the North Carolina Tar Heels swept the Atlantic Coast Conference Tennis Championships.

Sparked by All-American Freddie McNair and senior captain Jimmy Corn, the Tar Heels actually clinched the title in the tournament's semi-finals. In the finals McNair captured his third straight Championship doubles title and his second successive singles crown.

Other singles winners were Corn at flight two, Rich McKee at flight three and John McNair at flight six. McKee teamed with Freddie for the doubles win.

The Tar Heels were 17-3 during the season, losing to number-one ranked Trinity, S.M.U. and Miami. Corn closed his UNC career with more wins in singles (79) and doubles (77) than any player in Tar Heel history.

Lacrosse

As in past years, North Carolina's lacrosse team found itself routing most of the opponents on its schedule, but falling prey to some of the nation's top-ranked squads in hard-fought matches.

Still, the Tar Heels can safely claim they are the class of the South and are themselves deserving of national attention. After all, 1972 marked the fifth straight year UNC has fashioned a winning record.

Coach Fred Mueller's stickmen displayed a tough, but thin, defense; a deep, but erratic, midfield; and a talented attack.

One of the most pleasant aspects of the year was the fact only two seniors will be lost from the starting line-up.

Outstanding in individual roles for UNC this year were three-time All-American Paul Truesdell at defense; goalie David Schreiner, who averaged more than 20 saves per game; attackman, Bruce Ledwith, who led the team in assists and total scoring, and sensational freshman, Bert Fett, the team leader in goals scored.

Each of the past three years, the Tar Heels have found themselves in the thick of the fight for the South Atlantic Division crown, and with so much talent returning next year, Carolina could find itself re-capturing the title they held in 1970.

Golf

In the sport annually dominated by Wake Forest, the Carolina Tar Heels finished fourth in the Atlantic Coast Conference Golf Championships.

With the 1971 individual champion, Marty West graduated, the Tar Heels played without a standout star. Lytton Perritt was UNC's top ACC finisher with a 12th place tie. Peter Pottle finished a stroke back and tied for 15th.

Carolina's other top finishers were Sid Aldridge, Armand Cerami and John Vanderbloemen.

HONORARIES

GEORGE EDWIN BUTLER, a diligent worker who always has time for other people from Clinton, N.C. has also spent time in many activities around campus. George has been active in Chi Psi fraternity, was Chairman of the Carolina Symposium (1972), and spent a great deal of time working in student government and on the student rights handbook. A major in English and history, he has received many honors, including tapping into the Order of the Grail, Phi Beta Kappa, Order of the Golden Fleece, serving as a Richardson Fellow and doing an honor thesis program on William Blake. George plans to attend Harvard Law School and may spend a year working with psychologist Robert Coles.

Majoring in economics, WILLIAM BARDEN GRIFFIN, is a big key to the success of the Human Sexuality Committee on campus. Bill was a youth consultant of the Statewide Family Planning Taskforce and traveled around giving speeches on family planning to groups. Besides serving as co-chairman of the Human Sexuality Committee, he has been tapped into the Order of the Golden Fleece, served as Rush Chairman of the Intrafraternity Council (1972) and been an active member of Phi Gamma Delta. A native of Rocky Mount, N.C., Bill spends time golfing and sailing and plans to attend the UNC School of Public Health.

JOSEPH PICKNEY McQUIRE, a Morehead scholar, is known over the nation as a top debater. A native of Asheville, Joe was the top speaker at debate tournaments at Redlands University, U.C.L.A., Indiana State, Oberlin University and the University of New Mexico. A history major, he served as president of the debate team, an alternate on the U.S. International Debate team, and national president of Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha (a speech honorary). Joe is a member of many campus activities — Phi Eta Sigma, Phi Beta Kappa, Orders of the Old Well, Grail and Golden Fleece and the critic, Dialectic and Philanthropic Societies. A recipient of the Wiley P. Mangum Oratory Award and 1972 D.S.R.T.K.A. National Student Speaker of the Year, Joe plans to attend Harvard Law School.

A RTVMP and psychology major, DEBORAH ANN POTTER has been associated with WCAR as a disc-jockey. Chairman of the Board, and station manger. She has been tapped into the Order of the Valkyries and the Golden Fleece and Phi Beta Kappa. Listing her hometown as Paris, France, Debbie was chosen as the James Craig Gray Outstanding Junior Woman, a N.C. fellow and was on a Roy Park Broadcasting Scholarship. Her future plans include work in television in the fields of news or public affairs.

Popular as a UNC basketball player, STEPHEN RICHARD PREVIS has accumulated many honors in this field — named to the 1st team of the Academic Basketball All-Americans (1972) and setting a new UNC Record for 155 assists in one season. Steve, a native of Bethel Park, Penn., is a RTVMP major, a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece and has worked with the Carolina Playmakers. Offered a screen test while in Los Angeles, he is known for his impersonations of people. Voted the Best Defensive Player (1972) and 2nd team of the ACC Tournament, Steve has been drafted by the Boston Celtics of the NBA and the Carolina Cougars of the ABA. He also has future interests in acting or law.

BRITAIN WALTON NICHOLSON, a Chapel Hill native, spends hours at handball and at many varied interests around town, such as organizing the 1970 Chapel Hill Street Christmas Party. An energetic person, Brit participated in rugby, the Toronto Exchange (1971), was Chi Psi fraternity Rush Chairman (1971), and was chairman of the Southern Soul Week in the Carolina Symposium (1972). A member of the Order of the Golden Fleece, Order of the Grail and a Richardson Fellow, he was a pre-med and English major. Brit's future plans include attending Duke Medical School.

The Yackety Yack is proud to present the recipients of the 1972 Frank Porter Graham Awards. These are presented annually under the sponsorship of the Yack to those seniors who make a clearly outstanding contribution to the University community. Recipients are selected by a committee of prominent juniors appointed by the editor.

Determinations are made on the basis of the student's campus participation, concern for University life, personal character, and the desire to work for the realization of his goals.

The awards also serve to honor Dr. Frank Porter Graham, past President of the University, United States Senator, and special United Nations mediator. Dr. Graham's dedication to the principles of equality, dignity and peace among men, his devotion to the improvement of the quality of life, and his unselfish service in the pursuit of these ideals guided the committee in selecting these students to receive the awards.

FRANK PORTER GRAHAM AWARDS

WILLIAM ALLEN REEP, an International Studies major, has been a moving force behind the UNC band. Serving as President of the band, Allen has been an assistant to the band leader for 3 years and arranged for new equipment in 1972. He was a member of the Marching, Pep, and Concert Bands and helped plan band trips for all football and basketball away-games. A native of Glen Alpine, N.C., he has been active in residence life in Scott Residence College. Serving as a senator and the governor of Scott College, he was instrumental in instigating the Scott Tissue, the second largest paper on campus. Allen also served in the N.C. Student Legislature and helped begin the Interchord, a literary magazine published once a year by Scott College.

A Rockefeller scholar and member of the Order of the Grail, CHRISTOPHER GLENN SAWYER plans to attend Yale Divinity School in the fall of 1972. Chris, a Winston-Salem native, has engaged in many campus activities besides his major in English, including Carolina Forum Chairman (1972), Chi Psi fraternity and serving on the Chancellor's Committee. While making the Dean's List, he had time to play handball, and handle an independent study his senior year on Bonhoeffer and Gandhi. Chris is well-known for his Forum parties he arranged and his sense of humor.

JAMES MURPHEY WEBSTER, from Winston-Salem, is one of Carolina's most inspirational football players. In his first year, recognized as great material, he broke his leg against Florida. As a junior, he suffered another injury and could not play. Jim had a great spring practice in 1971, but broke a neck bone in pre-season practice in the fall. Doctors said he would probably not participate in sports again, but he came back in midseason and played sensationally. Playing in the Gator Bowl, he was voted most valuable member of the Carolina team and received the Miller Award which goes to the defeated team's outstanding player. He also won the ACC Brian Piccolo Award for his courage and determination to play.
